

Brexit and the impact on your industry

GAMBICA

- Is your voice being heard on how Brexit has or may impact your business?
- Are you aware of the impacts of potential changes in trade policy, regulation, standards and customs on international trade for your business?
- Can you play a role in directly influencing government policy and industry position throughout the transition and post-Brexit?

GAMBICA helps all our members with these issues through the EURIS Taskforce, a collaborative group of Trade Associations bringing together a common voice of industry. Formed by GAMBICA and BEAMA, there are now 13 associations that work together under the EURIS umbrella.

As well as influencing government departments, ministers, MP's and peers, we are also working in partnership with government officials to provide data, case studies, analyses and impacts studies. The output of this work will help to form the new trade policies as part of the ongoing negotiations between the UK and the EU. This is where member companies bring expertise and experience to make their voices heard on the real-life situation and business impacts.

EURIS

EURIS is an advisory body for the potential impacts of the changing relationship between the UK and EU for the UK Government, manufacturers and media.

EURIS members are industry trade associations, covering companies across electrotechnical, electronic and mechanical engineering products.
